EXPLANATION OF SUBSKILL SCORES

The score is based on the ability to use accurate and appropriate words and phrases in meaningful sentences.	Candidate can understand, recall and produce many English phrases and clauses in sentence context. Candidate produces a range of meaningful sentences.
Vocabulary	Vocabulary reflects how well the candidate understands and produces a wide range of words in spoken English from everyday and workplace situations. Stress may be placed incorrectly in some words, or stress placement may be ambiguous. Speech is mostly intelligible, but many listeners will need to adjust to the accent.
Listening Comprehension	Listening reflects how well the candidate understands specific details and main ideas from everyday and workplace English speech. The score is based on the ability to track meaning and infer the message from English that is spoken at a conversational pace. ## DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF LANGUAGE CAPABILITIES

The statements in the boxes below are taken from the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages, or CEFR (Council of Europe, 2001). They describe the language capabilities of typical candidates who have a similar Overall score as given on this score report. The guidelines are derived from a benchmark study conducted on the Versant English Test. A panel of expert linguists judged the performances of candidates who responded to prompts and verbal questions. The panel's judgments were then mapped to scores on the Versant English Test. Using this research, clear descriptions of average user language ability can be provided.

The descriptors of the CEFR were used by the expert panel while listening to candidates' performances and determining language competence. The spoken performances were sampled from speakers representing 22 countries from multiple regions including East Asia, the Middle East, South America, and from both Eastern and Western Europe. Male and female speakers were equally represented, and the age of candidates ranged from 12 to 65 with an average age of 25.

Please note that the information presented in this section is modeled on the average ratings of large samples of test takers. It therefore refers to the average candidate. Individual candidates may perform at higher or lower level than indicated in this guide. (See "Current Capabilities" on pages 1 and 2 for personalized results.)
